

ENDEAVOUR REMINDER: CUSTOMERSOURCE FACELIFT \(REPLACED WITH DOCS.MICROSOFT.COM\)

Microsoft has announced that they are retiring and decommissioning the CustomerSource portal and replacing it with access to docs.microsoft.com.

Before being decommissioned the CustomerSource portal was used by clients to access account information relating to Microsoft Dynamics GP and other on-premise applications such as Dynamics CRM. The primary use of CustomerSource was for self-service access to announcements, documentation, training materials and downloadable content such as service packs and updates.

Starting February 2021, the NEW public facing Microsoft portal for customer access will be via docs.microsoft.com the goal is to provide a better customer experience while at the same time improving upon the security and stability experienced with CustomerSource. Account management type tasks such as registering authorized users will now be handled by authorized Microsoft partners such as Endeavour.

Note: The majority of content that has been migrated and updated on docs.microsoft.com no longer requires a username / password. An exception being that downloadable content does require specific account access. The same user credentials as used for CustomerSource have been migrated to this new platform.

Additional documentation for Microsoft Dynamics GP can be found within various sections in Docs.Microsoft.com including the following links:
